What information do we process?

In order to give OH advice, we need to know who you are, what you do and what the issue is. This information comes to us from your employer in the form of a referral. The information we obtain as part of our clinical services is confidential and your OH records are not able to be seen by others, including your employer. For OH advice to be available to your employer, we would normally produce a report for your employer, outlining the main issues relevant to your case. You will see the report and be offered a copy. We need your consent before we would send this to the employer. You are not obliged to give consent in which case, no report will be sent.

Security of information

We take reasonable security precautions for the personal information we store. This includes IT security measures such as data encryption as well as physical security and access controls. Your employer is also required to take reasonable precautions with the OH report/supplementary information that we send to them. These responsibilities are defined in our Data Sharing Agreement which employers must sign up to and can be viewed here.

Legal basis for processing

Our legal basis under the GDPR for processing personal sensitive information is on Consent from the individual and for the purposes of Occupational Medicine.
